Memorial Day two-timed

Thanks to the General Assembly, Memorial Day will be celebrated twice in Illinois.

Federal law has set Monday for observance of the holiday as part of a congressional program of establishing three-day weekend holidays.

The state legislature, however, has restored the holiday to the date of its original observance on Thursday.

So the celebration of Memorial Day will depend on whether a person, business or governmental agency decides to follow the federal or state law.

All state offices, of course, will remain open Monday and will be closed Thursday. State employees have also been given Friday off to observe Memorial Day with a four-day weekend.

All federal offices will be closed Monday and will observe a three-day weekend.

Those observing Memorial Day on Thursday include public schools. The Carbondale elementary and high schools will be closed Thursday.

Other agencies closing on Thursday include Carbondale city offices, the Jackson County Courthouse and the Illinois veterans' office in Murphysboro.

Those off Monday include SIU, John A. Logan College, the Carbondale Chamber of Commerce office and all Carbondale banks.

Area businesses are divided between Monday and Thursday.

Judge warns against 'games'

SIU ordered to release names of 104

By Jeff Jouett
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Circuit Judge Payton Kunce ordered SIU Thursday to release the names and sub-classes of the 104 terminated employees and warned attorneys against "cat and mouse games" in his courtroom.

Kunce also told each lawyer to submit a comprehensive brief stating their position on the motion to dismiss the class-action law suit against terminated faculty before he will rule on that motion.

"And I don't want perfunctory briefs, I want comprehensive briefs," Kunce scolded in deciding to postpone ruling on the dismissal motion. Kunce denied the attorneys the privilege of written reply to each other's brief.

SIU was given five days to comply with the order to name the 104. Attorneys Carl Runge, for terminated faculty, and John C. Feirich, for SIU, were given 10 days to submit the comprehensive brief to Kunce.

"This is a very serious matter," Kunce said. "This case is drawing great public interest and causing great uncertainty within the university. I think it's time people know where they stand," Kunce said.

Runge told the court he believed the 104 suit did not meet certain requirements for a class-action suit.

"The plaintiffs (SIU Board of Trustees) and their agents have demonstrated the ability to deal with the supposed class individually right up until 4:30 last night," Runge said.

Runge referred to out-of-court cash settlements and rehiring some dismissed faculty in different jobs at SIU being conducted by Keith Leasure, vice president for academic affairs and provost.

Feirich countered that such settlements "are not pertinent to this litigation." The only common issue to be decided in the current case, Feirich said, "is was there financial exigency and was it properly declared."

"Separate issues in no way prevent a hearing on common issues," Feirich argued. "Individuals will have the right to intervene after this common issue is disposed of."

Kunce told the lawyers that he was aware that outside of the courtroom parties were playing cat and mouse games with an air of uncertainty regarding the cash settlements.

"But we don't play cat and mouse in this courtroom," Kunce said.

"It is essential to know who and how many will be affected by the decision," Kunce said in calling for the list.

At least 20 of the 104 have signed releases forfeiting rights to representation in the class-action suit and other grievances against SIU in agreeing to accept cash settlements from SIU, Runge told the court.

Leasure confirmed Thursday that 19 of the terminated faculty have signed settlements and that four or five more have accepted but have not signed yet.

Faculty who have signed releases may not be affected by the outcome of the litigation to determine if financial exigency existed.

In preparing its list, the University must decide whether to include those faculty who have settled, Runge said.

Runge accused SIU of using the class-action suit as an evasive tactic to hide behind while making settlements with individuals that require forfeiting of grievances.

"If settlements continue," Runge said, "the University will rob all the named classes of due process rights because agreements have been signed."

Feirich said the class-action suit was filed and is being continued "to permit prompt disposition, avoid multiplicity of suits, duplicity of court action, and to save money for all concerned."

He added that if the current suit was ruled not to be a class-action suit, the litigation would still stand against the six representatives specifically named.

"And I stand ready, willing, and able to file 98 more summons" to include the rest of the 104 in the suit as specifically named defendants, he added.

Kunce said there are no written laws on class-action litigation in Illinois, therefore the matter is based in common law.

There are several precedent cases in Illinois, Kunce added, "some of which the attorneys have not mentioned."

SIU's class-action suit is somewhat unique, Kunce said, because the class is the defendant rather than the plaintiff.

Runge filed the motion to dismiss the suit May 14 on the grounds that "there is no common question of law" that justifies treating terminated faculty as a class. He added that individualized settlements by the University contradict the contention of the suit that

Law school must sink over $500,000 in library to receive accreditation

By Diane Mizialko
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Within 18 months, the SIU School of Law must pour more than a half-million dollars into its library to meet accreditation requirements.

The School of Law has been provisionally accredited by the American Bar Association and, according to law librarian Roger Jacobs, will have no problem achieving permanent ABA accreditation.

However, accreditation by the American Association of Law Schools (AALS) requires law schools have libraries of at least 60,000 volumes. The SIU Law Library owns about 35,000 volumes, said Jacobs, a professor of law.

An AALS accreditation team will visit SIU late in 1975. By then, Jacobs said, the law library must own or have on order 25,000 more volumes.

He said the average cost of a law book is $17.50, meaning 25,000 new volumes would cost $537,000.

AALS accreditation is vital to the School of Law. "There's no way we can afford not to be in compliance," said Thomas Roady, associate dean of the law school.

The AALS is a 74-year-old non-profit corporation which serves as a watchdog on quality of legal education. Accreditation by the AALS is considered

Ex-board members must yield records

By Dan Haar
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The former members of the Carbondale Board of Fire and Police Commissioners were ordered Thursday by Jackson County Circuit Judge Peyton Kunc to hand over all records to the present fire and police board.

The former members had refused to hand over any pertinent records they held after they were dismissed by the Carbondale City Council on Feb. 18 for not complying with a city ordinance transferring the board's administrative functions.

The present members, whose appointments were approved by the council on Feb. 18 have claimed that they have been unable to operate without the records, which include copies of tests and interviews.

The present board had gone before the council requesting that legal action be taken. The council then directed City Attorney John Womick to take the necessary legal action.

Carl Runge, an East St. Louis attorney representing the former board members, argued that ordering the former members to hand over the records could be interpreted as a ruling on the present board's validity.

Council to hold run off election

A runoff election will be held to resolve a tie between two candidates for a vacancy on the Graduate Council.

Hans Rudnick, English, and S. Morris Eames, philosophy, received the same number of votes to fill the vacancy in Area 1.

Six other instructors were elected to the council. They are: Area 2, Thomas O. Olson, radio-television; Area 3, John Granfell, rehabilitation; Area 4, James C. Parker, educational administration and foundations; Area 5, Tommy T. Dunagan, physiology; Area 6, Carl Langanhop, mathematics; Area 7, Ronald Beazley, geography.

Two graduate faculty members were elected as representatives to the University Senate. They are: Area 3, Wayne Ramp, occupational education; and Area 7, Carroll Riley, anthropology.

The newly elected council members will take their seats during the June 7 meeting. No date has been set for the run-off election.

The former board members have filed for a court judgement on a city ordinance that transfers the board's administrative functions to the city manager. The former board has contended that the ordinance is in conflict with the Illinois Board of Fire and Police Commissioners Act, under which the board had been operating.

When the council passed an ordinance amending the act, the former board members refused to comply and asked the circuit court to rule on the ordinance's validity.

The council dismissed the members instead of waiting for the ruling on the validity of ordinance, as the former members had suggested.

Runge asked Kunc to either dismiss the request for the records or delay the decision until the ordinance is ruled on.

Kunc, in ordering the records to be handed over, stressed that he was not ruling on the validity of either board. Instead, Kunc said the issue was whether the records were needed for the city's effective operation.

The records would enable the present board to test candidates for the police and fire department. Kunc said the records were obviously needed.

Kunc also heard two other motions connected with the former board's request for a declaratory judgement of the city ordinance.

Kunc denied a request for an injunction made by Mike Maurizio and other members of the police department who have joined the former members in asking for a ruling on the ordinance.

The injunction would have ordered the city to stop operating under the city ordinance until its validity was ruled on in court.

Kunc said it was consistent with his denial of a similar request by the former board members.

Maurizio and other affected policemen joined the suit against the city primarily to determine whether the city ordinance jeopardizes their pension benefits.

According to state law, a person must be a duly, properly appointed police officer to receive the benefits of the fund. The police joined the suit to see if policemen are duly and properly appointed under the city ordinance.

Under the city ordinance, the city manager would appoint or promote policemen from a list supplied by the board. Also, the city manager can discipline or dismiss a policeman with the board holding a hearing on the causes. The board decision would stand.

Under the state act, appointments and promotions were made by the chief of police from a list supplied by the board.

Kunc also denied a request by Womick that firemen be allowed to join the city's side in the suit on the validity of the city ordinance.

The request was denied after Kunc was informed by the firemen's union lawyer that the firemen did not want to join. Kunc said the city could not include persons or groups in the suit without their consent.

Kunc did allow 10 days for "anyone affected by the suit (on the ordinance's validity)" to request to join the suit, either on the city's or former board's side.

Housing Authority tests families' devotion to pets

By David Kornblith
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Murphy family of Carbondale has only a few hours to decide whether to leave their home or Poochie and Julie.

After three years Poochie and Julie, a mother and daughter dog duo, will no longer be tolerated by the Jackson County Housing Authority, at Elm and Marion Streets. Recently management officials have been hit with complaints about the dogs.

On Wednesday the Murphys and eight other families of the housing authority received formal notification that it is either their pets or them in 72 hours. Time runs out Friday afternoon.

In an attempt to keep his family together, George Murphy, 3003 E. Elm St. is looking for a low cost house to rent in the country.

Mrs. Murphy is looking for foster parents for her dogs. "If I have no one to keep my dogs I'll have to have them killed."

Under Schedule A of the Housing Authority Act, "no dogs, cats, fowl or other animals may be kept on the premises." Mrs. Murphy's dogs are also in violation of the Animal Control Act, according to the citation issued to her Wednesday. All dogs must be vaccinated. The Murphy dogs haven't received the necessary shots.

Even if the dogs do get vaccinated, residents will still be issued an eviction proceedings letter Friday, said John Hellmer, housing manager.

In the past six years the management has never objected to residents having pets, Mrs. Murphy said. Recently, however, one of the residents started a petition to evict the dogs.

"I've been trying to be lenient, but groups have been complaining about the dogs," Hellmer said. Tenants don't want dogs on their front porches, he added.

When management was confronted with the petition, it decided to act. On Wednesday afternoon Hellmer, accompanied by rabies control office, made his rounds to the pet owners distributing citations and notices for court summons.

Mrs. Murphy said the situation has upset her children, Michael, 9, and Angela, 6.

Mrs. Dorothy Cunningham, another pet owner, said people shouldn't have to be deprived pets because they can't afford to own homes.

"As long as you keep them off of other people's lawns, there's nothing wrong," said Rebecca Johnson, Mrs. Cunningham's 15-year-old daughter. "Living here is like living in prison."

Law school sets sights on books

the stamp of approval on a law school's academic quality.

ABA accreditation is less academically oriented, Jacobs explained, but is necessary to enable graduates to take the bar exam in Illinois or other states.

The ABA requires no set number of volumes to be in libraries of ABA-accredited law schools, but does require certain materials to be available to students, he said. The AALS not only requires schools to meet the 60,000-volume goal, but also requires a long list of specific materials be included in the library.

"There is hardly anything on the AALS list we don't have," Jacobs said. The main problem, he continued, is in beefing up the quantity of volumes in the library.

The law school received a "strong headstart" Jacobs said, by acquiring about 30,000 law books from the Morris Library collection. "That saved us about three years," Jacobs said.

Originally, the University law school planning committee had reported that 65,000 law volumes were available in Morris Library for transfer to Law Library. However, Jacobs said, that turned out to be a "misunderstanding."

Many of the materials included in the 65,000 volumes were more relevant to the study of government and sociology than law, Jacobs said. These were left in Morris Library. Removing the other 30,000 books from Morris caused "much pain and suffering" to students and faculty from law-related disciplines, Jacobs said.

Associate Dean Roady said the law school has not been informed of its budget for fiscal year 1974-75. But, he said, the Illinois Board of Higher Education, which recommends budgets to the legislature, is aware that the SIU School of Law is striving for accreditation.

"The school has to be accredited," Roady said. "Hopefully, the IBHE will see it that way, too."

Not all library materials will be purchased with public funds controlled by the IBHE, Roady said. The law school continues to receive donations of law books and other materials from the estates or surplus collections of attorneys.

Jacobs said he is "trying his damndest" to add to the collection by exchanging materials with other law librarians.

Between publicly funded purchases, donations and exchanges, Roady said, the process of building the library to accreditation standards has "made a lot of progress."

Jacobs was even more optimistic. The chance of non-accreditation by the AALS, he said, "is as remote as the sun not coming up."

Open house acquaints businessmen with services of manpower center

By Gary Houy
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

About 200 people, including State Sen. Gene Johns and Congressional candidate Paul Simon, attended the first Manpower Skill Center open house Thursday.

Director John Sutton described the open house as "very successful." It featured tours of the center by members of the General Occupational Advisory Committee, sponsors of the event. Visitors observed ship and classroom work, met members of the staff and were served a buffet lunch.

Purpose of the open house was to allow area business, industrial and public service representatives to become better acquainted with the center.

Robert O'Brien, chairman of the advisory committee, said the center is used to educate people with skills that are "saleable in job hunting."

"It's for people of all ages," he said. "It gives them a place to practice what they want to learn."

Teachers employed at the center are people who have developed skills in industry and are willing to give up some of industry's "monetary advantages" to teach at the center, O'Brien said.

The center was established in 1962 after the passage of the Manpower Development and Training Act, that year. It is also known as the Ordill Skill Center. It is a joint project of the SIU School of Technical Careers, which provides the vocational training, and the Illinois State Employment Service Offices, which places the trainees in the center and provides them with a basic "living allowance."

Presently housed in old Army buildings at Crab Orchard Wildlife Refuge, the center is scheduled to take over facilities of the School of Technical Careers when the school moves to the SIU campus.

About a year ago, the advisory committee was formed to make people aware of the center, O'Brien said. The committee is comprised of 11 people from various Southern Illinois industries, businesses and institutions. O'Brien is an auto dealer at B, H and O Chevrolet, Inc.

"The advisory committee can go right to the businesses, while the administrators are tied up in red tape," O'Brien said.

When the automobile repair program needed cars to work on, the committee went to the dealers and got several cars at no charge, O'Brien said. Occasionally, the committee comes up with ideas for the center that are "so crazy that they work," he said.

O'Brien said the center has been very successful, as indicated by its 94 per cent placement of trainees.

A total of 453 trainees was enrolled in the center in 1973, and about 140 are presently enrolled in nine vocational areas. These are: auto body repair, auto repair, clerical, cook, machine trades, maintenance mechanics, office machine service, welding and furniture upholstery.

The courses are offered for different lengths of time. The shortest are 24 weeks. The longest take 40 weeks. Sutton said trainees work eight hours a day, five days a week.

There are 17 students enrolled in the welding program. Instructor Don Scott said the students are involved in actual welding six hours a day, and "related education" for two hours a day. Related education deals with instruction that does not actually involve welding, but supplements the training.

Scott said companies telephone the center when they need welders. He said the welding program has an 80 per cent placement rate. More than half of the welding trainees are Vietnam veterans, Scott said.

The clerical program is located above the welding facilities. There are 40 people enrolled in the clerical cluster, including three men. The program is divided into three stages, beginning, intermediate and advanced, where the trainees use electric IBM typewriters. The program also teaches filing and dictaphone operating.

On the threshold of oblivion

To the Daily Egyptian:

I have waited—in vain, it would appear—for some innovative reporting on the ramifications of the firing of the Carbondale 104. Alas, hundreds of column inches have been spent to inform us of the actions of SOS, the administration's sometimes bullheaded stances, AAUP censure and the efforts of fired faculty to retain their positions (as if teaching at SIU were some kind of honor), and very little space has been devoted to what is perhaps the most serious issue in the case (yes, even more serious than the firing of tenured faculty)—the gradual closing of educational options open to the students of this university.

I would like to speak of one of these options which may well no longer be available to SIU students. Though few people on campus might be aware of it, until this year SIU had an embryonic, though growing, program in Asian studies which appeared to be on the brink of something very positive. We had courses in Chinese, Japanese and Vietnamese, Japanese and Chinese literature in translation, Asian humanities, Asian history, Asian political systems, philosophy, anthropology, geography and others; students who wished could choose a special major with a concentration in Asian studies. Some of us had hoped we might soon be recognized as an "official" interdisciplinary program. Course enrollments and offerings were growing.

Then flashed the SIU budget cutting axe. Although various administrators (most recently President Lesar, at a meeting of the 104) assure us that growing programs and new programs will not be cut, the coming academic year finds SIU without any faculty in Asian history (how can we ignore a whole continent?), without any Chinese or Japanese literature offerings, without Asian geography, with a severely curtailed Japanese language program, and—for the next two years at any rate—no courses in Asian philosophy. A letter from the Asian Studies Committee protesting the elimination of two important positions in Asian studies was countered two weeks later with an obviously pre-dated form letter from the Vice President for Academic Affairs informing us that our committee had been disbanded by the school.

I recently sent a three-page letter to President Lesar stating the case for Asian studies—and the humanities in particular—and received in reply a polite six-line note informing me a committee will someday "review the whole spectrum of our academic programs." On the same day I read in the DE that the Carbondale police chief, who is "only a few hours away" from a Master's degree, is to be appointed as a $20,000 a year assistant professor at SIU.

That was the straw which broke the camel's back. By the time the president's committee gets around to its review, makes its recommendations, revises its recommendations and has them accepted or rejected by the higher authorities, Asian studies will be, for all intents and purposes, a dead issue here. The base of interested students will have scattered, the school will be even more firmly set in its parochial concepts of education, and no one will see the need for starting something "new." The money which might have gone into Asian studies will go to some new non-academic program. Perhaps we will offer the Carbondale fire chief a $25,000 position.

I do not believe that the administration is "out to get" the Asian studies program, or other academic programs which have suffered greatly as a result of the cutback. Nevertheless, these programs have been "got," and will be killed by silence and lack of institutional commitment.

When I arrived here in September, President Derge sent me a letter which stated, among other things, that the university is "on the threshold of realizing a unique potential." Its current lack of commitment to programs such as Asian Studies shows that SIU is on the threshold of anything, it is oblivion.

We need you Joe C.

To the Daily Egyptian:

An open letter to Joe C. Meriweather:

On behalf of many anxious Saluki basketball fans I would like to say that it is our hope you will stick it out for another year. In my opinion, as with many others, you have nothing at all to lose and much more to gain if you stick it out. As with all things of value, in your case great talent, it becomes more of an asset with time. For myself, watching the ABA is like watching one big one-on-one game with each player taking his turn. Looking to the Saluki basketball future, and a possible post-season birth next year, players on the team, such as yourself, will be given the long needed television coverage SIU needs. For you this coverage could mean being chosen in the first round of the NBA instead of the ABA.

Enough with other people's needs. It is your decision. I would hate to see you change your mind over someone flashing a few bills in front of you. Whatever your decision people in this area enjoy watching you play, and wish you much success.

Editorial Errant Crusaders

The Campus Crusade for Christ has been using questionable tactics in attempting to spread its teachings.

A religious organization should find no need to employ deception as a means of reaching an audience. Yet the Campus Crusade seems intent on using that very weapon.

It is not uncommon to be approached by members of this organization who seek attention under the guise of conducting "a survey for later publication in the Daily Egyptian." It is not until later in the ensuing conversation that they begin to identify their true affiliation and purpose.

This is an old advertising gimmick, but certainly not to be expected from a religious group.

An even more blatant example was the "magic show" they sponsored last year.

An extensive advertising campaign promised a free demonstration of magic and gave no indication of the true purpose. After about a half hour of standard tricks, the audience was treated to the big "trick"—the Campus Crusade for Christ was there to spread its word.

Even the Crusade's national newspaper does not come across in a straightforward manner.

Its name plate carries the vague title of "Student Action—Campus Happenings of a Worldwide Student Movement." Only a close look inside reveals any mention of Campus Crusade for Christ.

These deceptive practices may work on the moment, but in the end they are probably self-defeating. Once someone has been duped (and knows it), it is unlikely that person will ever again accept a message from that source.

It's a simple case of lost credibility.

Other religious organizations don't find it necessary to rely on cheap ploys and there's no need for the Crusade to either.

The Campus Crusade for Christ may very well have an important and beneficial message but, so long as trickery is the basis for delivery, it will probably alienate more people than it convinces.

Kent State...four years later

By Bill Gordon
in WIN War Resisters League

On May 4, 1970, Jeffrey Jones, a 19-year-old private in the Ohio National Guard with no previous experience in riot control was marching with his company across the Kent State University campus, feeling somewhat uneasy about some rocks being thrown in his direction.

As the soldiers reached a grassy knoll some of Jones's fellow soldiers, most of whom had far more experience in controlling disorders, suddenly turned. While Jones watched in stunned disbelief, they fired a barrage of bullets at the demonstrators. "The only thing I can see that might come up that isn't already known," Jones said, "is who started the shooting and why. Whether there was an order to fire, whether they panicked or . . ."

"I don't believe anybody knows for sure, except the person that actually fired the first shot."

For years, Government investigators and newsmen have been unable to produce conclusive answers as to why the triggers were pulled. And even Jeffrey Jones, who found himself standing between the men on the firing line, couldn't say whether the guardsmen had panicked, conspired or were ordered to fire, or even whether the guardsmen felt, as their superiors claimed, that they had to fire in self-defense.

On March 29, the federal grand jury investigating the shootings also failed to clear up the mystery. On that day the jury returned indictment against eight enlisted guardsmen. The jury did not bring charges against any officers or return indictments for conspiracy.

One defendant, Sgt. Mathew J. Manus, lashed out at the guard's commander, Gen. Robert Canterbury, who he said "violated every rule of military procedure . . . I don't think the grand jury went far enough," McManus said. "They should have taken a look at Canterbury's actions that day."

"It was obvious that when he told us to go up the hill with no other troops behind us that the students were going to be able to surround us," McManus said. He also charged that "the truth about Kent State has never been printed."

There were unconfirmed reports that immediately after the shootings, the guardsmen had been whisked off campus, sequestered and coached on what to tell federal investigators.

An article, dated May 25, 1970, said that shortly after the shootings, there was "an order from Canterbury to load the men on to half-ton trucks take them into the Ravenna Armory by convoy, lock the doors behind them and station armed guards in front and back." At the Akron Armory, Major Jones was telling the men of the 145th behind closed doors:

"The first thing many of you should do is have a talk with your lawyer. If you don't have one, then look into getting one . . . The FBI, as you know, is conducting a thorough investigation. When it is released, then we'll all get a chance to have our own say. Meanwhile, don't even tell your wife too much at this stage."

Among other unanswered questions, according to an Akron Beacon Journal analysis, was the role, if any, that federal undercover agents played in the shootings. The Beacon Journal said "the question is especially significant in light of the FBI's recent disclosure that for three years—from 1968 to 1971—it carried on a campaign to disrupt New Left activities through the use of informers and agents provocateurs."

The Beacon Journal disclosed that it had interviewed "two men who admitted they were on the federal payroll in an undercover capacity at Kent state in 1970," but did not offer any evidence that they were in any way responsible for what happened.

Also unresolved is why the Justice Department delayed convening the grand jury until December 1973, three and a half years after the shootings. The parents of the four slain students have charged that the federal probe may have been initially blocked by the White House. They asked the House Judiciary Committee to look into the Nixon Administration's "political motivations" as part of its impeachment proceedings.

At a March 31 press conference in Cleveland, parents of seven of the slain and wounded students and their attorneys issued a statement saying that "former Attorney General John Mitchell's decision in August 1971 not to allow a federal grand jury was made at a time when he was already actively engaged in the management of President Nixon's re-election campaign and in the face of the strong conclusions of the Scranton Commission that the shootings were "unnecessary, unwarranted and excusable."

The statement continued: "As recently as May 1973, shortly before (former Attorney General Elliot) Richardson reopened the investigation, the White House specifically ruled out the convening of a federal grand jury, and the White House specifically commented that if a grand jury were convened, no indictments would result. This was an inappropriate intrusion by the White House into the affairs of the judicial branch of government."

The House Judiciary Subcommittee on Constitutional Rights and Civil Liberties has been studying the Justice Department's handling of the case since last summer. On March 15, subcommittee counsel Alan Parker told the Cleveland Press that if the evidence warranted it, the results of the inquiry would be referred to the full House Judiciary Committee's impeachment investigation.

Letter

Unequal starting

To the Daily Egyptian:

In a recent letter to the Daily Egyptian, John Vogler, claimed that the time had come for blacks to "quit belly-aching and get to work." In addition he said, "you" (meaning blacks) "have the same opportunity to use the library, to join the sailing club, to join the parachute club. You have the same tools with which to work. Use them!"

But isn't this simplistic and illogical solution to the black problem that the late President Lyndon B. Johnson criticized when he said, "you do not take a man who for years has been hobbled by chains, liberate him, bring him to the starting line of a race saying, 'you are free to compete with all the others' and still justly believe you have been completely fair?"

Designers named for federal building

U.S. Rep. Kenneth Gray, (D-West Frankfort) announced Thursday that two architectural firms, including one from Carbondale, have been selected by the General Services Administration (GSA) to design the new $6-million federal building in Carbondale.

The designers of the building, which will house area federal agency offices, are Fischer and Stein of Carbondale and Lee, Potter and Smith of Paducah, Ky. They were named by GSA Administrator Authur Sampson.

"I am sure that with the expertise of this fine group of architects, we will have a beautiful design as soon as possible," Gray said.

President Nixon's Office of Management and Budget approved Gray's request for a $6 million federal building in Carbondale in early November. Final approval of the project followed shortly from the House and Senate public works committees.

Federal agencies which will be housed in the building include the Social Security Administration, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the Internal Revenue Service and Marine and Air Force recruiting offices.

The building will be constructed under the purchase contract authority of the 1972 Public Buildings Amendment. The amendment provides that buildings for federal use may be financed with private funds and bought back by the federal government at a specified rent-like rate over a specified period of time.

Selection of architects, engineers, construction contractors and the building site is the responsibility of the GSA.

Money to finance site acquisition and design costs will be supplied by the GSA's contingency fund. Gray has estimated that the GSA may have to chip in as much as $660,000.

The money for the actual construction of the building will have to come from a private backer, whether it be a private investor or the construction firm.

Whoever puts up the money for the building construction will be paid back by the federal government in regular installments over a period of 30 years. After the 30 years, the federal government will own the building.

Carbondale has been considering coordinating its plans for a new city hall with the federal building to form a government office complex.

Some suggestions have been constructing the city building as a wing to the federal building or have the city building situated next to the federal office building.

With the selection of designers for the federal building, City Planning Director James Rayfield said the city will have to start planning something definite for the city building.

"The city will probably have to get involved with the architects (selected by GSA)," Rayfield said.

Rayfield said nothing definite could be planned until the GSA picks a site for the federal building. The GSA has narrowed the choices of sites to three in Carbondale but has not made a final selection for the federal building site.

Once the site has been chosen, Rayfield said the city could see about acquiring land near the site to coordinate the city building with the federal building.

If the new city hall is built with the federal building, all costs of the city building would have to be financed by the city.

Plea given for amnesty

Pope proclaims Holy Year

By Hilmi Toros
Associated Press Writer

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI issued a plea to world governments Thursday to consider granting amnesty to prisoners, especially those held for political crimes.

In a bull, or solemn and authoritative papal letter, proclaiming 1975 a Holy Year, the pontiff declared:

"Proper authorities of different nations should consider the possibility of wisely granting an amnesty to prisoners, as a witness to clemency and equity, especially to those who have given sufficient proof of moral and civic rehabilitation, or who may have been caught up in political and social upheavals too immense for them to be held fully responsible."

The pontiff named no nations, but sources at the Vatican said his appeal was primarily directed at Roman Catholic nations, particularly Spain, Chile, Brazil and Uruguay, where the problem of political prisoners has been brought to the Vatican's attention.

The sources said Pope Paul expects an amnesty in those countries.

Feminist group sets logo contest

The Feminist Action Coalition (FAC) will pay $25 to the person who designs the best FAC logo. Anyone may submit his or her entry to Ginny Britton, Woody Hall B-162. "Logos will be judged on the appropriateness of the design in keeping with the objectives of the Feminist Action Coalition," FAC member Noel Kumins said.

Deadline for entries is June 30.

or he would not have issued such a strong plea. In the last Holy Year in 1950, when Pope Pius XII made a similar appeal, Franco's Spain decreed amnesty to common criminals and political prisoners.

The Pope's bull named the great problems before mankind as "social and economic questions, ecology, energy and, above all, the liberation of those oppressed and the elevation of all men to greater dignity."

The Pope personally handed his letter to Vatican prelates in the Apostolic Palace. Then, in a procession, the prelates marched to the entrance of St. Peter's Basilica, where the bull was read in Latin.

Two new members seated on Liquor Advisory Board

By Judy Vandewater
Student Writer

The Mayor's Liquor Advisory Board officially seated two new members Wednesday night.

Robert Stokes, photographer at SIU, and Richard Williams, an employee of Golde's Store for Men, were welcomed by the board. One vacancy on the board remains. Board members are appointed by the mayor.

Board members voted unanimously to recommend to the mayor approval of a liquor license application made by the Club Manhattan, 215 N. Washington.

A progress report on the remodeling of 608 1/2 So. Illinois Ave. for a liquor establishment was presented to the board. Jim Winfree, the proprietor of the bar, was granted an extension by the board until Sept. 1, 1974. This will allow him time to complete remodeling.

The extension was granted with the stipulation that within 30 days Winfree supply the board with a copy of his lease, a list of land trust beneficiaries, a copy of incorporation papers and documented evidence that construction supplies have been ordered.

The board members discussed plans for procedure changes claiming they were tired of being harassed by people from the audience at their meetings. No definite plans were made to deal with the situation.

The board also discussed present liquor code and ordinances. Going over the ordinance word by word, they discussed ambiguous statements caused by "poor wording" of the ordinance.

The board referred to the fact that motels with class C licences are allowed to sell packaged liquor to "patrons." It was determined that patron should be defined as a registered overnight guest of the establishment.

Mayor Neal Eckert sat in on part of the discussion and suggested that the board leave out a stipulation that the inside of an establishment that sells liquor be totally visible from the street. That provision is in accordance with state laws but is not enforced through the state.

The board suggested rewording of another ambiguous section of the ordinance to make it clear that a holder of a liquor license is directly responsible for any violations of the liquor ordinance.

Upon completion of the review, suggestions for proposed revisions will be submitted to the City Council for approval.

'Locked jaw' dieting ends after 6 months

By Ronald Thomson
Associated Press Writer

NOTTINGHAM, England (AP)—"I feel beautiful. I'll never slip back to being fat," Shirley Turner said Thursday as she revealed that her jaws had been unclenched, ending a six-month slimming ordeal.

Death brings murder charge

PEORIA (AP)—A Peoria woman has been indicted on charges of murdering her husband early this month, then trying to conceal the killing.

Melinda Scott Gilyard, 30, was indicted Wednesday by a Peoria County grand jury in the shooting of her husband, Sheadrich, 37, whose body was found May 8 near the Illinois River.

Police said a white substance had been placed in Gilyard's eyes to make authorities believe it was a gangland slaying.

Clard Scott, 46, of Peoria, also was indicted on a charge of concealing the murder.

Doctors and dentists had installed a silver clamp to hold her teeth together last November to stop her insatiable nibbling and it was removed Wednesday, the 36-year-old housewife said.

Mrs. Turner, mother of two teenage daughters, lost 101 pounds through the liquid diet she was forced to follow, dropping from 247 pounds to 146.

She said she still hopes to reach her "bikini target" of 136 pounds by the time she and her family go on vacation at the end of June.

"I know it," she said. "I'll never eat bread and potatoes again in my life."

"I would smile if I could, but it hurts too much," she said.

"You have no idea how tender my jaws feel after six months being jammed together."

Doctors at Nottingham General hospital decided to remove the clamp after Mrs. Turner complained of agonizing pain in her locked jaws last week.

"The pain was red hot, my face felt swollen, I couldn't sleep," she said. "It appears that the silver plate holding my jaws together had slipped and was setting up an infection."

Gay foster homes advocated

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—An Illinois social worker said Thursday homosexuals can provide guilt-free, understanding foster homes for homosexual and non-homosexual children.

David Sindt spoke to the National Conference on Social Welfare on the final day of a three-day meeting.

Sindt, a Presbyterian minister and a social worker who licenses foster homes in Cook County, Ill., said he is a gay activist who knows of three homosexual households involved in Cook County's foster children care program.

He said the unidentified people involved had not advised Illinois officials of their homosexual connections.

Officials of the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services were unavailable for comment.

Sindt said homosexual foster parents can remove feelings of guilt children have about sex and can help a homosexual child accept himself and become less defensive.

He described a married couple he called Mr. and Mrs. C., both gay activists with their own children.

He said they are providing a foster home for a homosexual teenage youth and are "a resource for this boy who was otherwise virtually unplaceable in a traditional foster home."

Sindt said that preventing homosexuals from providing parental and child care "is simply to reinforce a circular and self-validating means of perpetuating age-old injustices."

He said very few homosexuals would try to make a foster child homosexual.

Charles Bowser, executive director of the Philadelphia Urban Coalition, criticized the lack of regulations on Federal Revenue Sharing Wednesday and said present rules virtually give mayors a blank check on how to spend the funds.

Frank Harris, associate executive director of the United Community Services of Metropolitan Detroit, also criticized Federal Revenue Sharing.

major to receive memorial award

Sharon Gromala, senior in social welfare, has been selected to receive the first annual George Ritchie Memorial Award for her scholarship service and student activity in the Social Welfare Department.

The award was established to honor the memory of George Ritchie, a 69-year-old social welfare major, who died in April of 1973, just a few months before he would have graduated with a bachelor's degree in social work.

Stanley H. Smith, dean of the College of Human Resources, will present the award to Ms. Gromala at the Honor's Day activities Sunday afternoon in Davis Auditorium.

Thirty-nine other social welfare majors will also be honored.

Police said Sandy Scroggins, age unknown, was shot by a man who burst into her residence at Calhoun Valley Apartments, shortly after 2 a.m. Police said they would have a description of the gunman when they are able to talk with Ms. Scroggins Friday.

The gunman burst into the apartment and demanded some "dope," police said. When Ms. Scroggins was not able to produce any, the gunman took an estimated $170 from her, police reported.

As Ms. Scroggins sat down on the bed after handing over the money, the gunman shot her in the face, police said.

Nixon's European influence weakened, says NATO head

CHICAGO (AP)—President Nixon's influence in Europe has been weakened by Watergate but not as severely as in the United States, the secretary-general of NATO said Thursday.

"We Europeans are somewhat taken aback when we reflect on some of the events that have occurred in America," said Joseph M. A. H. Luns. He added, "The impact of Watergate in Europe has been more muted than in the United States."

Luns, of the Netherlands, met Wednesday with the President in Washington. He spoke with newsmen before an address to the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations, which was closed to the media. He has been head of NATO since 1971.

When asked if U.S.-European relations would suffer if Nixon was removed from office, Luns said, "We will just have to wait and see what the Senate does." The President will be tried in the Senate if the House of Representatives impeaches him.

Luns said he believes that the President shouldn't cancel his planned summit conference in June with Russian leaders, as some persons have suggested, until his Watergate difficulties are settled.

"If I were President of the United States, I would most certainly go. The moment is a good one," Luns said. He added, however, "Hitherto, détente has been rather modest in its effects. . . . But it's gone from confrontation to negotiation and that's better."

Leadership changes throughout Europe probably will affect NATO, but to what extent remains unclear, Luns said.

"Only two of the 15 NATO countries—Luxembourg and the U.S.—have more or less the same governments as last year. And when I met with Mr. Nixon, he said, 'We have our problems, too,'" Luns said.

The new leaders of Germany and France "won't be bad for the alliance," Luns said. He added that Portugal remains a question mark after a recent leftist insurrection, while Britain's new prime minister, Harold Wilson, understandably is concerned with domestic difficulties.

Luns said he believes that U.S.-West German relations will improve with the selection of Helmut Schmidt as the new chancellor. He added that he feared the election of Socialist candidate Francois Mitterand as French president because of his promises to the French Communist Party. While Mitterand won the French primary, he was defeated last week by moderate Valéry Giscard d'Estaing.

In other matters, India's explosion of a nuclear device last week saddened him, Luns said.

Fulbright-Hays applications currently being accepted

Applications are now being accepted for senior Fulbright-Hays awards for university lecturing and advanced research in more than 75 countries during 1974-75, Frank Rackerby, faculty Fulbright adviser, has announced.

A booklet from the Council for International Exchange of Scholars (formerly the Committee on International Exchange of Persons) is available at Rackerby's office in the Office of International Education, Woody Hall.

Application requirements include: U.S. citizenship; for lectureships—college or university teaching experience; for research awards—a doctorate or, in some fields, recognized professional standing as demonstrated by faculty rank, publications, compositions, exhibition record, and so forth. Some awards are open to advanced doctoral candidates.

Deadline for applying for most of the research awards is July 1, 1974. The same date is suggested for filing for lectureships, Rackerby said.

Stipends for the senior Fulbright-Hays awards generally consist of a maintenance allowance in local currency to cover normal living costs of the grantee and family while in residence abroad, and round-trip travel for the grantee, he said. Transportation is not provided for dependents.

African students to sponsor talk on degree woes

The African Students Association will present a lecture "focusing on problems of foreign students who return to their countries with American degrees," Hassan Sisay, president of the organization, said Wednesday.

Frank Sehnert of the University Museum, who was the coordinator of the SIU-Mohonic pilot project on re-entry, will speak at 7:30 p.m. Friday in Activity Room A on the third floor of the Student Center.

"We want to urge all foreign students to attend," Sisay said, "so they will know what to expect when they return home. Sometimes they get discriminated against in countries where they consider American degrees not as good as those from London."

"There is also the problem of readjusting from a fast-paced society like America to a more slow-moving society," Sisay said.

Time capsule, circa 1949, slated for Saturday opening

By Charlotte Jones
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A 67-pound naval artillery shell which was stuffed with newspaper clippings, microfilm and pictures 25 years ago and turned into a time capsule is set to be opened Saturday at 11:30 a.m. in front of Shryock Auditorium.

Clark Davis, who presided at the dedication of the time capsule in 1949 will serve as emcee for the opening ceremony, Rino Bianchi, adviser to Alpha Phi Omega, sponsor of the project, said.

Davis, now with the Resources for Tomorrow office at SIU, was a member of the 1949 faculty.

Alpha Phi Omega plans to commemorate 55 SIU faculty members who have been at this campus since 1949, Bianchi said.

The time capsule project was sponsored by the service fraternity, after the naval shell was donated by the U.S. Navy. The fraternity conducted a drive to collect items to preserve the life and times at SIU during 1949.

Opening date for the capsule was set to coincide with the 100th year since the beginning of classes at SIU.

Delyte Morris, SIU president in 1949, has been invited to the opening ceremonies of the time capsule but he has not yet agreed to attend, Bianchi said.

Contents of the capsule will be turned over to the archives in Morris Library, Bianchi said. "We're hoping they will be put on display."

No one knows for sure what is in the capsule, Cliff Englert, chairman of the capsule committee said. "We think it contains a tape recording of the capsule dedication ceremonies and biographies of the 1949 campus organizations."

A list of microfilm tapes allegedly put into the capsule was found in one of Morris' files, Englert said.

Bianchi said the fraternity members have been talking about refilling the time capsule and keeping the project going.

The capsule opening is scheduled as part of the 25th anniversary celebration of Alpha Phi Omega.

Projects by the SIU chapter this year include collecting for Easter Seals, donating to the Heart Fund, ushering events at Shryock and the Arena and supporting two foster children.

If it rains Saturday, the ceremony will be held in Shryock.

Dirksen library shows signs of early decay

PEKIN (AP)—With its scheduled opening three months away, part of the new Everett McKinley Dirksen Memorial Library and Congressional Research Center is beginning to crumble.

The problem is three brick overhangs, known as lintels. One has collapsed and two others have cracked, said Richard N. Peck, library director.

They are now being propped up by wooden supports.

"It all boils down to who is at fault," said a construction worker at the site. "Someone is obviously guilty of misjudgment. If we remove those boards, that brick the lintels will collapse."

The construction company, masons and architectural firm all say they are not to blame.

A University of Illinois professor has been using a computer to try and find a solution, Peck said.

The building, which will cost more than $1 million, is already 10 months behind schedule. Peck said the problems with the lintels will not affect the scheduled August opening.

The structure is being built in honor of the late Sen. Everett McKinley Dirksen.

"Repairs will proceed as soon as a solution is determined and it will cost the taxpayers nothing," said John Hackler, head of the project architectural firm.

Time capsule, circa 1949, slated for Saturday opening

By Charlotte Jones
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A 67-pound naval artillery shell which was stuffed with newspaper clippings, microfilm and pictures 25 years ago and turned into a time capsule is set to be opened Saturday at 11:30 a.m. in front of Shryock Auditorium.

Clark Davis, who presided at the dedication of the time capsule in 1949 will serve as emcee for the opening ceremony, Rino Bianchi, adviser to Alpha Phi Omega, sponsor of the project, said.

Davis, now with the Resources for Tomorrow office at SIU, was a member of the 1949 faculty.

Alpha Phi Omega plans to commemorate 55 SIU faculty members who have been at this campus since 1949, Bianchi said.

The time capsule project was sponsored by the service fraternity, after the naval shell was donated by the U.S. Navy. The fraternity conducted a drive to collect items to preserve the life and times at SIU during 1949.

Opening date for the capsule was set to coincide with the 100th year since the beginning of classes at SIU.

Delyte Morris, SIU president in 1949, has been invited to the opening ceremonies of the time capsule but he has not yet agreed to attend, Bianchi said.

Contents of the capsule will be turned over to the archives in Morris Library, Bianchi said. "We're hoping they will be put on display."

No one knows for sure what is in the capsule, Cliff Englert, chairman of the capsule committee said. "We think it contains a tape recording of the capsule dedication ceremonies and biographies of the 1949 campus organizations."

Irish strike causes fuel, oil shortages

By Ed Blanche
Associated Press Writer

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP)—Northern Ireland began to run out of gas, oil and electricity Thursday as a general strike threatened to grid this British province to a halt by the weekend.

Garbage was piled high because sanitation workers were off the job for the ninth straight day, and electricity shortages turned off sewage treatment plants.

Four women's groups issued a joint appeal to the Northern Ireland Executive to "find a way out of the disastrous situation."

Protestant workers called the strike to protest British government plans for a council of Ireland which would give the predominantly Roman Catholic Irish republic a say in Northern Ireland's affairs.

Authorities agreed Wednesday to postpone plans for the council, but the strikers scoffed at the offer as a "confidence trick."

Motorists waited for four hours and more to get gas. Supplies were expected to run out by nightfall. Emergency plans were made to try to secure gasoline supplies for ambulances, fire trucks and police cars.

The Electricity Board warned that only two power stations were operating in the province at less than 30 per cent of capacity each. It said fuel shortages could shut off electricity supplies by the weekend.

The strike and barricades in the streets have prevented gasoline trucks from reaching gas stations and power stations.

SIU, supervisor of tourism explore idea for coal museum

Bill Hurst, supervisor of the Illinois Division of Tourism, met with representatives of the SIU Museum and SIU Foundation Thursday in the Student Center to discuss the possibility of building a coal museum in the area.

"The meeting was strictly exploratory and the project is just an idea so far," Hurst said.

"We're trying to interest the coal companies in helping build a museum which would show a transition from what coal mining used to be in Southern Illinois to what it is today," Hurst said.

Hurst said the project idea is so new that the planning committees had not discussed where the museum might be built.

He said they discussed sending a proposal to the Economic Development Administration to conduct a feasibility study.

"The representatives at the meeting were extremely excited about building the museum. Hopefully, the project will get off the ground real soon, Hurst said.

Farm prices decline in April, record supply of meat cited

By Don Kendall
Associated Press Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—A 1.1 percent decline in retail prices of farm-produced food from March to April meant a $20 drop in a year's supply of groceries for a typical household, according to Agriculture Department figures released Thursday.

The decline, first since last October, meant it cost $1,728 a year to feed a theoretical household of 3.2 persons. The indicator has risen to a record rate of $1,748 a year in March.

Although the decrease was heartening to consumers, the $20 reduction in April translated into a food bill savings of only 38 cents a week.

The figures also showed the marketbasket cost in April was 16.8 per cent higher than in the same month last year when it was $1,481 on an annual basis. Thus, the net rise from April to April was $247 or about $4.74 per week in family food bills.

Further, the April marketbasket's annual rate was still $48 higher than last January. It had risen $52 in February and $15 in March.

The new figures, computed by USDA at the request of reporters, showed farmers absorbed all of the April decline while middlemen increased their margins 1.5 per cent for transporting, processing and selling food.

U of I gets grant for police study

URBANA (AP)—The National Clearinghouse on Criminal Justice planning and Architecture at the University of Illinois has been awarded $300,000 to provide technical assistance to law enforcement agencies.

The money will be used to upgrade planning and design of police programs and facilities, and to conduct seminars and demonstration projects for law enforcement authorities.

The grant was made by the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

Elsewhere, two congressmen said that beef prices are being kept high by meat packers who are pirating money from consumers and cattle producers through a sham meat shortage.

Reps. Frank Denholm, D-S.D., and Lester Wolff, D-N.Y., said there is a record high stockpile of 476 million pounds of meat in cold storage, 37 per cent higher than a year ago, and 87 per cent more poultry.

Black comedy successful

'Anniversary' an enjoyable play

By Julie Titone
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

In the final line of "The Anniversary," this weekend's Laboratory Theater production, the actress says wryly "Oh, I have enjoyed myself tonight!" She undoubtedly spoke for the entire audience at Wednesday's preview. "The Anniversary" is a "black" comedy, and English playwright Bill MacIver has filled it with some absolutely scathing lines. The only requirements of its audiences are that they be able to put up with the cut-downs that come flying furiously from the small Lab theater, stage, and that they be able to stifle their laughs in time to keep from missing any lines.

Mum, a witty, scheming mother, is the hub of the play. Her hilarious but hard-hearted efforts to dominate her three grown sons are the mainstays of the action—but to tell any more of the plot might just ruin the fun for this weekend's audiences.

Director Kathryn Hollis was wise in her choice of Bonita Blandi for the role of Mum. Ms. Blandi's wide-eyed expressions and scale-climbing voice support a sense of humor which Mum's son accurately described as "wafting like poisonous gas." Her only flaw is not communicating anything at all lovable about Mum, leaving the audience to wonder why her children hadn't left her long ago.

Randy Lockwood gives a good performance as Tom, the youngest son. His delivery of jokes about the family's shady construction business, as well as his impish plotting of Mum's death, are flawless.

Lynn Myers shows a lot of gumption in her part as Shirley, the girl who Tom brought in to stand up to his mother. Hopefully, she will have ironed out the problems she has with her lines by Friday night.

Paul Klapper is unflappable in his portrayal of Henry, the oldest son who has escaped Mum's erratic ways by going "around the bend." Henry comes off as a perfectly pleasing "perv."

Terry, son number two, is played by John Speckhardt. Speckhardt is well cast as the cowering, nervous carpenter. Joan Dietrich plays Terry's wife, Karen. She is funny and frantic, and manages (along with the rest of the cast) not to overdo the play's English-ness. Ms. Hollis, assisted by Richard Klein, displays an obvious flair for directing with "The Anniversary." Set and lighting design by Stephen Fabis and costume design by Richye Herlihy are effective in creating the proper mood for the play.

Performances are scheduled for 8 p.m. Friday, Saturday and Sunday in the Laboratory Theater of the Communications Building. General admission is $1.25, and tickets may be purchased at the University Theater Box Office or at the door.

Paul Klapper plays Henry.

Air conditioner 'not cool' after police lose evidence

COLLINSVILLE (AP)—A Collinsville man thought everything was cool last month when the Madison County Sheriff's Department recovered his stolen air conditioner. But now he's getting a little hot under the collar.

It seems the sheriff's department may have accidentally given the air conditioner back to the man they charged with stealing it. Mike Storey, 21, a mobile home salesman, says the three-ton central air conditioner, worth about $500, was taken from the sales lot April 9. Police recovered the unit the same day.

Storey said, "I went up to the jail and identified my air conditioner in the trunk of this guy's car but the sheriff's department told me they would have to keep it as evidence and I couldn't get it back until the guy had been prosecuted."

Last Monday he called the department and asked for it. "They told me they had looked for it for a week and couldn't find it. They said it had never been booked as evidence. The detective told me it is possible they gave it back to this guy who stole it."

Detective John Slotta said he fears it still may have been in the trunk of the car when the suspect was released. If authorities can't find it, they say, they'll replace it.

Ex-college chief indicted by jury on perjury count

BENTON (AP)—A federal grand jury indicted Thursday a former State Community College of East St. Louis president for perjury.

Clifton J. Woods II, 53, now a biology teacher at Loop College in Chicago, was accused Thursday of lying last October to an East St. Louis grand jury investigating SCC's use of federal funds.

The indictment said Woods violated his oath when questioned about an apparently non-existent program set up at the junior college to obtain federal aid, and lied again about endorsement of two checks totaling more than $3,000. Woods is not accused of taking the money.

Henry Schwarz, U.S. attorney, said his investigation of SCC's use of federal money revealed a massive "rip-off." The October grand jury was investigating the dispersal and possible personal use of federal funds by college employees, officials and students; conspiracy and possible falsification of reports to obtain federal funds.

Nixon to get veterans bills on disabled, school deadline

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House passed and sent to President Nixon Thursday a bill providing a $586.9-million increase in benefits for veteran's disabled in service and their dependents.

It also passed and sent to the President stop-gap legislation to prevent 285,000 veterans now in school from losing their education benefits while the Senate and House consider an over-all education bill.

The Senate earlier this month voted 82-0 to extend the education deadline two years—to June 1, 1976.

House action on the two-year extension was by unanimous consent.

The disability compensation bill, also passed by unanimous House consent, totals $130 million more than Nixon asked in January.

Veterans with a disability rating of 10 to 50 per cent would get a 15 per cent increase in benefits. Those with a disability rating from 60 to 100 per cent and statutory awards for anatomical losses would get an 18 per cent boost.

Thus, the payment for 10 per cent disability would be raised from $28 to $32 a month, and for 100 per cent, the increase would be from $495 to $584.

The payment to widows and children of veterans who died of service-connected causes would be increased 17 per cent. These now range from $184 to $469 monthly depending on the veteran's highest rank in service.

The education bill affects 206,000 post-Korea veterans and 79,000 Vietnam era veterans who are now in school. They are among four million veterans who served between 1955 and 1966 and whose education benefits are due to expire June 1.

A number of SIU's approximately 2,000 veterans are among those scheduled to lose their benefits unless the June 1 deadline is changed, a spokesman for the University's veterans office said Thursday.

Correction

It was incorrectly reported in Wednesday's issue of the Daily Egyptian that Eric Cheatham won the Pan-Hellenic Council Member of the Year award. The award was won by Monroe Smith of Kappa Alpha Psi. The award presentation was made during the annual Greek Week dinner sponsored by the Inter-Greek council.

Golden Gopher bats, SIU errors spell doom for Salukis in meet

By Mark Tupper
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

MINNEAPOLIS—The Minnesota Golden Gophers unleashed a 13-hit barrage and the SIU Salukis cooperated with six errors Thursday as SIU fell 9-4 in the first day of the District IV playoffs.

The Salukis will meet Cincinnati at 10 a.m. Friday and must win all remaining games to win the district title. Cincinnati lost the series opener 3-0 as Miami of Ohio right-hander Jack Kucek fired the first no-hitter in NCAA district play since 1967.

SIU used three pitchers as starter Scott Waltemate was shelled early for his third loss of the season against 10 wins. Jim Bokelmann and Robin Derry pitched in relief for the Salukis.

The aggressive Gophers pounced on Waltemate for four runs in the second inning. Two singles and a throwing error by Waltemate loaded the bases with no outs. Two fly outs later, Waltemate forced in a run when he walked Minnesota second baseman Steve Shimek.

Mike Fitzenberger, who won the Big Ten batting championship with .365 average, then lined a single to center. SIU centerfielder John Hoscheidt charged the ball but over ran it, allowing three runs to score. All four runs in the inning were unearned.

The Salukis countered in their half of the inning, scoring three runs on Burt Newman's two-run double and Hoscheidt's RBI single.

But the Minnesota batters continued to blast Waltemate, scoring a run in the third and two more in the fourth. After Bokelmann relieved Waltemate in the fourth the Minnesota bats cooled.

Trailing 7-3 in the sixth, SIU scored its fourth run. Stan Mann went to third on two Gopher errors and Newman's perfect two-out squeeze bunt scored Mann.

A Saluki passed ball and an error by second baseman Howie Mitchell gave Minnesota two more runs in the eighth. On the day, the six SIU errors accounted for six unearned runs.

A controversial double play ended any hopes of an SIU rally in the ninth when umpire Otho Cortz ruled an apparently dropped pop up as caught, doubling Newman off first.

"They just ripped us today," a disappointed SIU coach Richard "Itchy" Jones said after the game. "That's the only way you can say it. We just got beat."

"It's always tough when you get in the loser's bracket," Jones said. "We've come that way before and we're not out of it until we lose the second one."

If SIU wins the first game Friday they will play the loser of the Minnesota-Miami game at 4 p.m.

Tracksters to tune up Saturday for NCAA

By Bruce Shapin
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Lonnie Brown will attempt to qualify for the NCAA track and field championships this weekend, as the SIU track team sends a small contingent to the Southern Cup Championships, Saturday night in Memphis, Tenn.

Brown must long jump 24' 8" to qualify for the NCAA, to be held June 4-8 in Austin, Texas. Brown just missed qualifying last week against Illinois State as he went 24-6 1/2.

"We're hoping that Lonnie can qualify for the NCAA, so he can get in some competition along with his spot on the mile-relay team," said coach Lew Hartzog.

Due to a leg injury, Mike Monroe is out for the rest of the track season. "Mike ran poorly last week so we're going to have him work on his leg so he can get ready for next year," said Hartzog.

The 440- and mile-relay teams will run this weekend in a final tune up for the NCAA. Gerald Smith, Eddie Sutton, Terry Erickson and Joe Laws will run the 440 relay which has a best time of 40.4. The NCAA qualifying standard is 41.0 for the 440 relay.

"Now that our 440 team is set for the year we're going to work on passing the baton," explained Hartzog. Several times this year the 440 team has dropped the baton during the competition.

The mile-relay team will compete at Memphis with Wayne Carmody, Ed Wardzala, Brown and Erickson. The mile team ran its fastest time of the year against Illinois State clocking in at 3:10. The mile relay NCAA qualifying time is 3:11.

Phil Robins, Bill Hancock and Gary Mandehr will make the trip this weekend. Robins will compete in the triple jump. Hancock will enter the high and long jumps and Mandehr will run the mile.

Robins has qualified for the NCAA triple jump. The NCAA qualifying standard in the triple jump is 50 feet. Robins has a jump of 53-10 to his credit this year.

Hancock will compete in the decathlon at the NCAA. "Bill's primary purpose down at Austin is the decathlon," said Hartzog. "After the decathlon competition he may enter the high jump since he has qualified for the NCAA in that event."

Sandi Gross

SIU freshman going to ENC

SIU freshman Sandi Gross is among 40 qualifiers to the 1974 Elite National Championship (ENC) to be conducted at the SIU Arena May 30 to June 1.

Gross ranks in the top 10 of the current Elite Class after her 72.40 all around average at the National AAU Championship held three weeks ago in Billings, Mt. Her fifth-place finish in the AAU meet earned her a berth on the U.S. team traveling to West Germany this summer.

Sandi, whose hometown is Long Beach, Calif., has been named to the U.S. international team and to the 1974 collegiate all around team.

Gross will join teammates Stephanie Stomer and Lynn Govin in the three day Elite Championships.

Thursday's session will be open free of charge to the public in cooperation with the SIU Convocation series. The two Friday sessions will cost $1.50 each for students. The finals on Saturday will cost $2 for students. A $5 reserved seat booklet will provide admission to all events.

Tickets are on sale now from 1-5 p.m. in the SIU athletic ticket office in the SIU Arena.

Meriweather tabbed school's top athlete

By Kenneth Pilarski
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

"This means a whole lot to me. Thank you very much," said basketball standout Joe C. Meriweather as he received the Hinckley Award as athlete of the year during the SIU All-Sports Awards Dinner Wednesday evening.

The evening was doubly rewarding for the 6-11 center as he was also named most valuable basketball player for the second year in a row.

Meriweather, a junior from Phenix City, Ala. finished the season with a 14.9 per game rebounding average, a .588 field goal percentage and a scoring average of 21.2. In the national rankings, Meriweather was seventh in rebounding, 12th in field goals and 41st in scoring.

Meriweather was a primary ingredient in SIU's success as the Salukis finished with a 19-7 record, their best since joining the major-college ranks in 1968.

In the presentation of the "Most Valuable Player" awards, Saluki shortstop Stan Mann was honored for baseball.

Mann, a senior from Affton, Mo., hit .289 as SIU compiled a 43-9 record prior to entering the district playoffs. Mann indicated he has a sharp batting eye as he fell one walk shy of the SIU record for most walks in a single season.

Senior Gerry Craig was named most valuable runner in cross country. Craig was consistently among the leaders in each meet as the Salukis finished with a 4-4 dual mark. At the NCAA championships, Craig placed 61st of over 230 runners. In track, senior Terry Erickson was honored as the most valuable trackster. During his career at SIU, Erickson emerged as one of the country's best quartermilers.

Joe C. Meriweather

Erickson's accomplishments are many. He turned in a school, stadium and personal record of :46.0 in the 440-yard dash recently in a dual meet victory over Illinois State. Erickson ran an unbeaten Saluki 800-yard relay which won championships at Kansas, Drake and Florida relays.

Erickson also anchored the one-mile relay team to a season best time of 3:10.3 against Illinois State.

The football awards were divided into the most valuable offensive and defensive players. Winner of the offensive honors was running back Larry Perkins. The senior from Memphis, Tenn. carried 205 times for 914 yards last fall. Perkins scored eight touchdowns and one two-point conversion.

In addition, Perkins completed six passes for 137 yards and returned 25 kickoffs for 499 yards.

Senior halfback, Bruce Corbin captured defensive honors. Corbin was one of the leaders in the secondary as he had 25 unassisted tackles, 19 assisted tackles, five pass interceptions, recovered two fumbles and broke up seven passes.

Golf's Mark Durham won most-valuable-player honors as he was one of the top two medalists at SIU in the 1973 and 1974 golf seasons. The sophomore from Mount Vernon, Ind. was also one of the finalists in the Indiana State Tournament.

Most valuable player in gymnastics was senior pommel horseman Ed Hembd. Hembd had his season best score of 9.5 on the pommel horse in winning the Rocky Mountain Open. In the NCAA Eastern Regional qualifications, Hembd placed third with a score of 18.425.

Swimming honors went to freshman Dave Swenson. Known by his teammates as Mr. Clutch, Swenson swam the three toughest events in every meet and often pulled the team through with good races in tight situations.

Swenson set a freshman record in the 400-yard butterfly with a time of 4:08.4 and was a member of the freshman record setting 400-yard medley relay team.

In other swimming presentations, senior Pat Sullivan won the leadership award; the scholarship award went to Dave Boyd and Mike Salerno was named most improved swimmer.

The most valuable tennis player award was based on the best won-lost record and freshman Scott Kidd captured the honor with a 20-9 mark. Kidd played at the No. 3, 4 and 5 singles spots during the season.

Wrestling honors went to 167-pound senior Don Stumpf. Stumpf compiled a 24-7-1 record and had four pins during the season. In 1973, he finished the season with a 23-4-2 record, including a fifth-place finish in the NCAA championships.

The Alumni Association's scholarship award went to Jay Wilkerson, who finished his four years at SIU with a 4.65 average. The scholarship award is given to the graduating senior athlete with the highest G.P.A. over four years.

Led in his kicking

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP)—Sophomore middle guard Dave Lawson of Shawnee Mission, Kan., lead the 1973 Air Force football team in scoring without crossing the goal line for a touchdown. He gained 55 points on 11 filed goals and 22 extra points.
